1. History

King George's Medical University, Uttar Pradesh (KGMU) is one of the oldest and most reputed medical institutions in the country. It is the 5th Medical University in the country and the 1st in Uttar Pradesh. The university is committed to excellence in the field of medical education, health care services and research. It serves the role of integrating modern medicine into the resource deficient environment in a developing country like India.

The history of KGMU dates back to 1870 when the Maharaja of Vijaynagaram first floated the idea of starting a medical college in Lucknow. This was recommended in 1905 to the Governor of India and the dream finally took shape with notable efforts & contributions from the Maharajas of Balrampur and Ayodhya, Raja of Jehangirabad, Rana Sheoraj Singh & Nawab Yusuf Ali. Prince of Wales laid the foundation stone on 26th Dec 1906 on the banks of River Gomti. The medical college was formally opened in Oct. 1911 by the then Lt. Governor of United Provinces, Sir John Prescott Hewett. The framework of admissions and the course of study were formulated on the advice of the British General Medical Council and the College became an affiliate of the Allahabad University. The first 226 bedded hospital associated with King George's Medical College came up in 1914 and was called King George's Hospital. KGMC was formally transferred under Lucknow University in 1921. In 1951 the name of King George's Hospital was changed to Gandhi Memorial and Associated Hospitals. Between the periods of 1981 to 1992 the college & hospital were taken over by the state government but the situation again reverted in 1992. In 1979 a Research Cell was established to centralize and facilitate institutional research.

The next major milestone in the growth of this Institution was its upgradation as a university, through an act passed by the Govt. of UP on September 16, 2002, redesignating King George's Medical College as Medical University.

2. Preamble

In year 2004 Ph.D. programme was initiated at King George's Medical University, U.P. (KGMU) in bio-medical sciences to promote state-of-art research and to mentor scholars in their area of specialization. In addition, these candidates are trained in areas like research methodology, bio-statistics, computer use, etc. This ensures general proficiency as researcher in biomedical sciences and increases the likelihood of their pursuing a successful career in research. Successful candidates are awarded “DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY” from King George's Medical University, UP. While this degree is not being awarded in any specific subject, the award certificate mentions the title of the thesis along with the month and year of the award of degree. The university ensures that outputs of Ph.D. programme are original works of excellence leading to discovery of new facts in science or evolution of fresh approach towards interpretation of existing facts. This document lists the rules and regulations for the Ph.D. programme at the university. These can be reviewed and modified from time to time in the interest of the programme.

3. Infrastructure

- 3.a. PhD students can be registered in an Institution (Like KGMU) only if infrastructure along with conducive academic environment exists with the guide and co-guide, who also have expertise in the area of research work proposed for PhD
- 3.b. Any Department that is recognized for undergraduate/ post-graduate training programme by Medical Council of India and is equipped to carry out research work can register a Ph.D. candidate under a KGMU faculty who will guide the work in any basic and/or clinical medical sciences.
